Flood Zone Study

A proposed engineering study regarding a Carmel River Flood Plain Zone, scheduled for discussion by the Board of Supervisors last Monday, was crowded off their agenda by matters of a more immediate nature. Recommendations and financing methods are contained in a report submitted recently by three County staff members; the Supervisors presumably will find time to take it up next week.

CV Chamber

Next Thursday evening, October 10, is the date set for the annual meeting of the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce. The usual Wednesday meeting night was changed in order to obtain the Community Center building as a meeting place. On the agenda for the meeting, set for 8:00 p. m., is selection of a nominating committee to submit a slate of candidates for officers for the coming year.

Garden Association

Carmel Valley Garden Association meets Friday evening, Oct. 4, at 8:00 p. m. in the multipurpose room at Tularcitos School. Chuck Kline will present an illustrated talk on new varieties of bulbs which can be planted now for spring bloom.

Fire Board to Meet

Regular monthly meeting of the board of commissioners of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire District is next Tuesday evening, Oct. 8, at 8:00 p. m. in the firehouse on Via Contenta.

Cover Picture:

Carmel Valley in all its moods has been pursued by many a fine artist-photographer, but George Seideneck is perhaps the dean of them all. He estimates that this photograph was taken about 15 years ago on the Pat Berta ranch. "I like it because it's a method of harvesting you just don't see any more," he said.

Retired now, George and Catherine Seideneck, both painters of some note, live in a rambling, rustic, utterly charming home in Los Ranchitos on which they began construction in 1930, a year after they purchased the property. Construction still progresses, with one of the owner's many "projects" even now underway.

CV Road Plans

First Section Pleases Property Owners

"Did you ever think we'd see this bunch of people agreeing happily like this on a plan for a 4-lane Carmel Valley Rd.?" This question, or one like it, repeatedly was asked Tuesday night among the 50-odd Valley residents and county officials who attended the showing of plans for the first 2 sections (as far as the Laureles Grade) of Carmel Valley Rd.

Planner James Campbell told the group that he was pleased with the number of "verticle separations" made possible by the Valley's natural terrain (meaning that the two-lane westbound and eastbound portions will pass each other on separate levels, at different elevations).

"Where a bank would have to be excavated extensively to permit addition of 2 more lanes, we can often separate the other 2 lanes if a natural bench exists at a different level. "This may mean that more land will have to be acquired for a right-of-way, Campbell pointed out. But--in answer to a question from County Planning Commission Chairman Keith Evans--Campbell felt optimistic that the reduced costs of excavation would prevent the total construction costs from rising too far above what they might have been otherwise.

"But I'm a planner, not an engineer, and I will need checking and confirmation by the road department before firm answers can be given," he repeatedly emphasized.

It appeared that none of the property owners present from below Dorris Drive had serious objections to the second version of the plan for that section. When property owner James Miller begged for the life of four "fine old oak trees, probably 100 years old apiece," Campbell countered with a humorous, "One thing about the tape I used to mark the plans--it just isn't flexible enough!" The intimation was clear that he considered minor adjustments to save the trees not only desirable but quite possible.

Smith Heads Community Center

Encouraged by the large attendance at Monday's open meeting of the Carmel Valley Community Center's board of directors, Jim Smith, newly elected president of the group, states, "I feel sure that we can now embark on a practical program--on which will solve the operating problems of the center and at the same time serve the widest possible community interest."

Elected with Smith as new directors were Mrs. Michael Antoncich and Donald Cummings, Jr.

Smith wished to stress that all Valley residents are invited to join the Community Center; membership fees of $1 will be happily and conveniently accepted daily at the Thunderbird Shop, next to the postoffice in Carmel Valley Village.

Organizations and individuals desiring to use the center building for meetings, parties, or other events should call Mrs. Martha Huff, treasurer, at 659-2007 for the rental schedule and observations, Smith pointed out.

Doyt Early, who had served as acting president of the community center for the past month, expressed himself as well-pleased that a vigorous new group of officers had been voted in. Monday's meeting, he said, "despite some initial knife-sharpening", had ended with possibilities of progress and relative amicability with "such nice touches as Mrs. Verga's introducing all the new members to the board, and Mrs. Huff providing coffee and doughnuts."

'Citizens Group' Cheers Center

Mary Lou Berta, chairman of the recently-formed "Citizens' Group" which has shown so much interest in the operation of the Carmel Valley Community Center, telephoned the Outlook Tuesday morning with a message for all Valley residents:

"Please join the center," Mrs. Berta asks. "All it needs is interested people to make it again whatever the Valley wants of it."

Mary Lou also wished to thank all the retiring directors and to congratulate the new ones.

BITS & PIECES by ye editor

PUPPETS, ANYONE?

With the end of the active summer season, Tantamount Theatre's Ralph Geddis and Francois expected that it would be time to end their weekly motion picture offerings in the beautiful but secluded Valley theatre. To their surprise, attendance has continued to climb even though it got off to a slow start at the beginning of the summer. Last Saturday night there were 75 persons present--increasingly fewer tourists and more Valley people, reports Francois, so they'll keep showing as long as viewers keep coming...

Will they put on any more puppet shows this year? "Only if we get help," say they. It takes more physical endurance than one might think to operate their famous doll characters! Eager to perpetuate this ancient but gradually vanishing art, the two entrepreneurs will welcome students in the field. Just call and ask!

BELATED REPORT ON "BEST" FORUM

No report of the third Youth Forum, held several weeks ago, has yet appeared in any newspaper, and it's a shame because it was in our opinion the most informative and constructive one so far.

The all-star cast of school officials included principals Warren Edwards of the High School, Walter Klas of the Junior High, and Bill Mallek of Tularecito and Carmelo elementary schools. Add to these Lloyd Swanson, a member of the Youth Study Committee who is in professional life Director of Guidance for Monterey Schools, and top it off with the surprise appearance of Superintendent Medill Bair as a member of the audience--well, a wealth of ideas were exchanged.

DROP-OUTS

Lou Gardner started the ball rolling with the observation that youths who have dropped out of school are the ones who have been the "trouble makers" in Carmel Valley.

Warren Edwards said dropouts are less of a problem at Carmel High than in most areas; as our area grows, he prophesied, we will notice the problem more. He said discouragement is the biggest factor and that yes, reading ability could contribute. A youngster who cannot read well can hardly study well--so of course may become discouraged!

Asked about the effectiveness of the teaching of reading in the Carmel schools, Edwards said that the turnover in population is so great, "that by high school age very few are there who started out in your school system--not enough to do a real job of evaluation!"

GREAT TURNOVER

The other principals gave substantiating figures. About 25% turnover per year. The core of a class which goes completely through any of our schools together is usually less than half.

Would more vocational training help to keep more youngsters in school who might otherwise drop out? Lloyd Swanson pointed out that Monterey has far more adequate shop facilities for vocational training than Carmel, "but we have our dropouts, too," he said wryly.

One of the most exciting suggestions made during the evening was that all of the small communities on the Monterey Peninsula should pool their vocational facilities, since none of the districts is large enough to invest in as much expensive, up-to-date equipment as would be desirable. To begin with, students might merely be allowed to go to a different school for a desired experience (as Carmel district students are now allowed to go to Salinas High if they desire agricultural training). One vocational high school serving all the districts might be the eventual goal, however.

FACILITIES

Said Edwards, "We are using the facilities of the community college more and more for our gifted students--in math and science, for example. This is the other end of the totem pole suggested here tonight--a new idea, and one well worth considering."

(We had the feeling that our local Youth Study Committee might have set some very worthwhile wheels in motion by bringing these representatives of different school districts and different levels of education together for the evening.)

NO EASY ANSWERS

The point was made repeatedly that while vocational training might be extremely desirable for a certain proportion of students, it could not be expected to solve the dropout problem (any more than a recreational program, however desirable, can solve the problem of juvenile delinquency--as Recreation Specialist Bill Wakefield recently pointed out).

Said Edwards, "before a student drops out, chances are the pattern of failure has become ingrained; he fails everywhere--even in athletics." Students who do well in athletics practically never drop out of school, Edwards said. "Just that much success is enough to keep them coming to school." Was it worthwhile for a student to stay in school simply for the sake of the athletic program? Edwards opined that "some learning would rub off, probably better than none at all!"--plus the experience of going on to complete a job once started.

PARENTS RATE HIGH

Asked about discipline, principal Bill Mallek gave Valley parents the unofficial grade of "A+" for co-operation with the school.

"The parents here are very, very good. Wonderful," he said, and one felt that he meant it. "We always get more than a 90% turnout at Parent-Teacher conferences--often up to 97%." He remarked sadly that it was the old story, however: those parents who most needed to confer with teachers on their child's behalf were invariably those few who did not show up.

Is discipline in the school any stricter than it was a few years ago? Mallek couldn't notice any difference. "Our parents have always wanted to keep close tabs on what their youngsters do at school," he said. "They phone us a lot; we phone them a lot. They know they are always welcome to visit." Mallek summed up the discipline problem with, "If youngsters feel they are learning, they feel satisfied. This helps cut down the discipline problem." He says he spends more time observing in classrooms than in taking disciplinary measures.

Carmel Center Facilities Could Serve Valley Youth

BY DOROTHY REED

At a panel meeting where members around the table outnumbered the audience, the CV Youth Study Group this week heard representatives of the Carmel Youth Center describe their activities and operation.

Asking questions for the Valley were Rev. James Brock, Dr. Lloyd Swanson and Lou Gardiner; answering for Carmel were James Buffington, Carmel city councilman and former president of the Youth Center adult board, Mrs. Karen Hicks, current adult board president, and three young people: Nancy Baxter, Toshia Seeders, and Scott Hennessy, all present or former members of the youth board.

The consensus of the meeting appeared early: that the Carmel center has an organization and facilities that could easily accommodate Valley youth; the main problem for Valley adults to tackle seemed to be that of transportation. Dr. Swanson observed, "It's much cheaper to run a bus than a Youth Center!"

The Carmel center was described as a building with a valuation of more than $100,000, belonging to and run by a non-profit corporation with an annual budget around $17,000 and a membership of approximately 500 teen-agers, by far the majority of them students at Carmel

High School. It employs a full-time director who lives on the premises. An assistant director, a woman, is present in the building whenever it is open to young people, and a third part-time director helps at large functions such as dances.

Besides accommodation for dancing and movies, the center also has a snack bar, ping-pong and pool tables, miniature bowling alley, television set, and even a very small library. All operating funds are raised by the membership, either through money-raising projects or by donations from interested citizens and business groups. Panel members agreed that raising their own money was one of the features of the center which makes the young people value it and consider it theirs. Because they feel it belongs to them, it was emphasized repeatedly, they assume the responsibility for its care, and any would-be vandalism is nipped in the bud. The same attitude is said to take care of rowdiness or questionable behavior of any kind.

Rev. Brock said afterward that perhaps the Valley study group could find a solution to the transportation problem for Valley youth and then put its own energies into individual cases where specific kinds of help seemed to be needed.

Valley Couple Sponsor School in Haiti

Cosmopolitan backgrounds and interests are something which many allegedly "retired" citizens, bright-eyed if grey-haired, bring with them to Carmel Valley.

Eve and Harper Brown, who moved to Robles del Rio in March of this year, are such a couple. They are the ones who are starting the one-room schoolhouse in Haiti (see ad elsewhere on this page.)

"The schools are ALL closed in Haiti, you know, because of the national emergency. We read in the S.F. Chronicle that all the schoolteachers had already left the country" explains earnest Mr. Brown, a retired liberal arts professor who taught at the Tyler School of Fine Arts at Temple University in Philadelphia. Mrs. Brown, under the name "Eve Tartar" operated a designers' shop on Madison Ave., in New York.

During a trip to Haiti some time ago, the couple unofficially "adopted" an entire family there. They became acquainted with the father of the family when they observed him sitting under a tree in the 130 degree heat of the day, studying an English dictionary. His ambition was to become a school teacher. Now, thanks to the Browns and their friends, with whom he has corresponded ever since, the ambition is to be realized.

Mr. Brown says that because "several people have already been very generous," actual construction of the 1-room school is well underway. Students will be able to start classes this month and "the American flags have already been sent," he says.

"Down there, it's amazing what a dollar will do. Many people there have written us that our contributions have kept them alive," said Eve.

FIRE HYDRANTS FOR BERWICK

Headed by Lee Jewell and Lester Tucker, a group of Berwick Manor residents are petitioning the county board of supervisors to have three fire hydrants placed in the subdivision. Jewell said that all homeowners contacted so far have been glad to sign the petition. He estimates that installation of the hydrants will add "$4 or $5 per year to our taxbills," but believes that fire insurance rates will decrease by a greater amount, in addition to the increased safety factor.

PARTY ON PANCCHO WAY

Betty and Will Johnson were host and hostess last Saturday at a cocktail party in their home on Pancho Way, Rancho Canada. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Pomeroy of Puerto Rico, (he is an associate of Will's in the commercial china business); Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Thompson of East Liverpool, Ohio—he is president and owner of the Hall China Company; and Mr. and Mrs. R. Miller of Berkeley—he's business administrator for the University of California.

Mr. Thompson and Mr. Pomeroy were here to participate in the 200 Club golf tournament at Cypress Point this week.

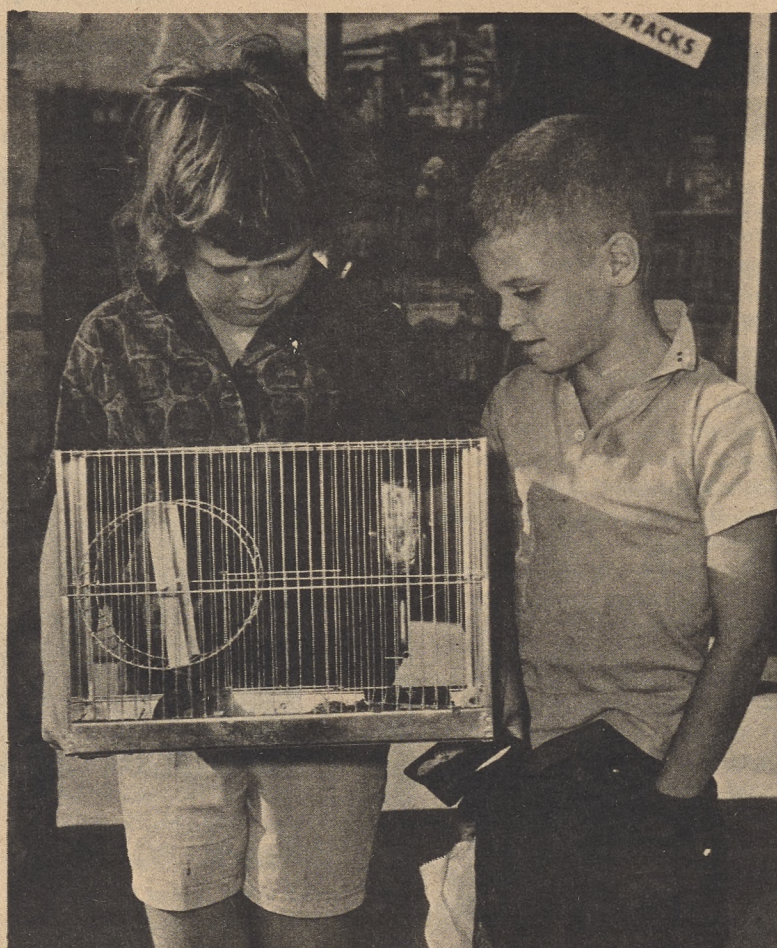

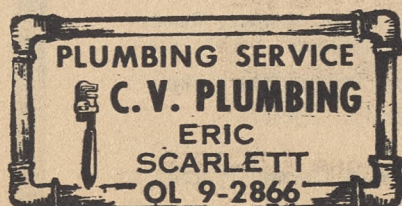

Following the cocktail party, the Johnsons entertained their friends with a dinner at Will's Fargo.

BUSY BEA

Mrs. Beatrice Testa of Lower Carmel Valley Rd., as president of United Cerebral Palsy of Central Coast Tri-County, attended the state meeting in San Mateo recently, accompanied by Mrs. Walter Savicki, treasurer of the local group. This week Mrs. Testa leaves to attend the national conference of the Cerebral Palsy Associations, to be held in Chicago. More than 500 representatives of the 315 affiliate groups throughout the country will gather to discuss 1964 plans.

James Hicks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hicks of lower Carmel Valley Rd., who received his graduate degree in Optometry from the University of California this year, has now passed the state and national board examinations and is associating with Dr. Bard Daughters, who for 30 years has maintained an optometric practice in Salinas.

The new Dr. Hicks grew up in the Valley, attended Carmelo Elementary School and Carmel High School before going on to major in biology at M. P. C. and San Francisco State. Following graduation from the latter, he entered the School of Optometry at the University of California. His graduate studies there placed special emphasis on the care and fitting of contact lenses.

BECKY AND MICHAEL, daughter and son of Rev. and Mrs. James Brock of Holt tract, acquired a Hamster during the opening festivities at Suds 'n Scissors last weekend. Proprietors Ted and "Vee" Fenley, already well-known to pet-lovers of the region gave away 400 goldfish to young visitors during the celebration.

NEWS FROM

Hacienda Carmel

Neil Armstrong at the console of our Hammond organ entertained residents with the first concert of the fall season at Hacienda Carmel last Sunday afternoon. The Hammond Organ Society of the Monterey Peninsula presented the program of popular music for us all.

DIP DINNER

Next Monday, October 7, Hacienda Carmel will have a

"dime a dip" dinner for members and their guests. A program of community singing and other entertainment will follow.

FISHERFOLK

We have quite a few fishermen among our members and this past week Charles Doonan and Mrs. Alta Jensen made a trip to Santa Cruz and brought back a nice catch. Mrs. Jensen caught the largest fish. Also Bruno Stiller, Clyde Hunter and Ed Petherick made a trip to the Big Sur with moderate success. That means Mr. Stiller and Mr. Hunter caught enough trout for one dinner but Ed Petherick could not land a legal-size fish. (He had a lot of fun, though.)

TRAVELERS RETURN

Mr. and Mrs. William Brown returned to Hacienda Carmel last week after a six thousand mile motor trip through British Columbia and Alaska. Although Bill Brown is an excellent fisherman he says he was on the go so much he didn't have time to indulge in the sport.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hunter had a cocktail party to celebrate the return of the Browns after an absence of four months.

WOODSHOP CHAIRMEN

Frank Tittmore and Bruno Stiller have been appointed chairmen of our new woodworking shop and are now busy setting up the equipment.

CHORAL GROUP

New View of Sunset

Rear Admiral C. W. Fisher (USN Ret.), president of the Carmel Citizens Committee, wants the city to buy Sunset School from the Carmel Unified School District.

In a letter to the city council, as head of the 400-member group, Admiral Fisher has urged the city council to acquire the school "at the earliest possible date at the lowest price" whatever the future of the property may be.

"The city should acquire Sunset before someone else gets it" said Admiral Fisher at a joint meeting of city and school district committees, to which he was invited. He also told the two groups appointed to negotiate concerning the future of the school that since the Sunset site and buildings were originally acquired by taxpayers of the school district when it extended little beyond the limits of the city, the district should consider asking "a very low price" for the facility. In effect, he pointed out, Carmel will be acquiring title to a property for which it will have paid twice if the city decides to acquire Sunset.

Speaking personally, not as head of the group which seeks to preserve the residential character of the community, Admiral Fisher stated last week he was not in favor of demolishing Sunset buildings for new development.

"There's plenty of life in many of those buildings, including the auditorium," is his opinion.

Representatives of Peninsula cultural groups, in a report to the Carmel council last month, proposed demolition of Sunset buildings and replacement with a $1,900,000 development which they propose to build on the Sunset site after it is purchased by the city. The group, headed by Kenneth Ehrman, also proposed financing the cultural center development with donations, grants and government funds.

Last week Ehrman announced Festival Theatre group chairmen also favor the proposed Sunset development.

Ski Club Plans Season

First meeting of the year for Carmel Ski Club members will be in the upstairs banquet room of the Outrigger Restaurant, Cannery Row, Monterey, at 8 p.m. on Oct. 10. All prospective skiers are invited to attend.

The club has cabins at Pine Crest near Dodge Ridge and, if there is snow, plans regular weekend trips to this ski area.

A pre-season cocktail party for the group was given recently by Mr. and Mrs. Al Ratsch.

Other planned activities this month are: annual Octoberfest, Oct. 26; wine tasting party, Oct.

Principals' Forum

makes for a difficult time for parents. His standard advice to them is, "Relax—it will get worse before it gets better!" He says that he has seen no problems in this district any different from those in other districts where he has served, and as for discipline, "People in our system who never taught elsewhere don't know what discipline problems are!"

He said the task of the Junior High School is to "challenge the kids to begin shifting responsibility for their own behavior from their parents to themselves. This is the age where that process really should begin."

UNDER-ACHIEVERS?

One of the most interesting (to us) statements of the evening came from Medill Bair. The question was asked, "What about those youngsters who stay in school, physically, but simply cease to do as well as they are able? In other words, they drop out emotionally."

In the language of teachers, such youngsters are known as "under-achievers."

Bair said there are far more over-achievers in our school system than under-achievers. "By this I mean a youngster of average or only slightly above average ability who works, works, works, to get topnotch grades," he said. The under-achievers are more apt to be those with of unusually high intelligence who find they can get along just fine without half-trying, he felt—but there are of course, only a few of those.

All in all, the evening furnished much food for thought. And we were left with the feeling that as parents we are extremely fortunate to have some extremely high-calibre men so obviously devoted to their work: our children. --B. B.

More Progress on Path

Medill Bair, superintendent of the Carmel school system, this week sent to all members of the board of education copies of a report from Supervisor Thomson J. Hudson. Prepared by the county road department at the request of Mr. Hudson, the report outlines a possible pedestrian path leading from Hatton Fields Mesa to Carmel Knolls Drive.

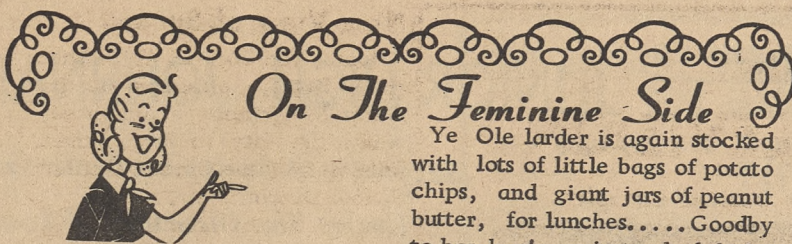

"It's hard on the kids," Mr. Bair declared referring to the present lack of a safe footpath from subdivisions in the Valley mouth area to Carmel Junior High School.

He felt that a footpath would be an educational and recreational advantage to the junior high school students.

Even though Hatton Fields Mesa is "not far away," Bair observed, the lack of a safe path may prevent students from staying after school to use the school library, confer with a teacher, attend music practice, or participate in after-school sports.

At present, students in the Mesa area are bussed to the junior high, also students in Mission Fields and Carmel Knolls. This service cost the school district almost $3000 last year. The superintendent felt confident that the path would permit children to get to school without bus transportation.

On The Feminine Side

THEY REALLY ARE — BACK IN SCHOOL !

BY LORRAINE TWOHIG

The budget has been diminished with the purchase of innumerable Ivy league pants (They have to be black this year Mom, and Tapered.).....purchase of lambs wool sweaters (Darned if I'll buy cashmere at this point in a sophomore's life--after the first wearing, you'll only see them on your daughter's girlfriend's back, as they begin the eternal round of clothes exchange.)

Ye Ole larder is again stocked with lots of little bags of potato chips, and giant jars of peanut butter, for lunches.....Goodbye to bar-b-q's, as instead of shish-kabobs, it's time for a hearty stew. The wood box is being filled again to feed the forgotten fireplace, and once again you pick up the knitting needles to finish that sweater you started before school let out.

Then the horrendous discovery that there is no possibility of slipping into the divine Italian knit you'd packed away for the summer. Ah well, here we are again, with time on our hands.. for just a little while, as trick and treats are just around the corner... then Thanksgiving... then -- Summer, come back !

Homemaking for Boys! (?)!

Carmel Junior High School and Santa Maria High School experienced a most interesting exchange program this year. Last year's CJHS homemaking teacher Miss Sandra Jackson is now teaching at Santa Maria, while Miss Bonnie Barry, '62-'63 student teacher at Santa Maria, is here! The two teachers were friends while students at Cal Poly.

The new CJHS homemaking teacher calls Santa Barbara her home. While in college, Miss Barry was very active in the sailing and homemaking clubs. She has joined a bowling team in the Carmel Teachers' League.

Homemaking projects for the year at the junior high include the organization of the Homemaking Club--and classes for boys! Miss Barry told this reporter that she felt there was much to be gained by having boys participate in the program.

Miss Barry rooms with another newcomer to the junior high--Miss Marilyn Nettleship. These two attractive young women share the homemaking teaching activities. Miss Nettleship's time is also given to instruction in typing and mathematics.

Miss Nettleship taught last year in St. Helena. After a visit with friends in Carmel, she could not resist an opportunity to come to the Peninsula.

A January, 1962 graduate of Chico State, Miss Nettleship was a college mate of Mrs. Jean White, Girls' Physical Education Director at CJHS. Miss Nettleship is a native of Oroville, Calif.

Scuba Diving Spanish Teacher

Miss Mary Thompson, new Spanish teacher at Carmel Junior High School, is earning her master's degree at the Monterey Institute of Foreign Languages.

Miss Thompson enjoys Spanish because it is an interesting, exciting language (Miss Thompson, by the way, is Irish!). She feels that a foreign language should be introduced informally, like in songs at elementary school, and then taught in full at junior high level.

Her conviction on the choosing between French and Spanish (these being the only 'living' languages taught at CJHS) is that the pupil should pick the language that he thinks most interesting, although Spanish probably is the more used of the two around California.

Miss Thompson has many varied interests, from writing poetry to water sports like scuba diving. Miss Thompson is also an ardent admirer of art and music.

Her attitude towards food is the following: "I like just about everything, except liver."

As this is Miss Thompson's first year in teaching, we hope it is a pleasant one, with many more like it in the future.

Math Whiz

Cdr. Ariel Lane (USN Ret.) had many interests at Carmel Valley Junior High School before he came to teach there. Most important of his interests were his daughters Marsha and Marilyn, both students here last year.

Cdr. Lane consequently became a leader of the CJHS Parents Club last year. But this year finds him in a new role at the junior high. He is teaching 7th and 8th grade mathematics.

Mr. Lane earned his B. S. at the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, where he taught for the government before joining the Carmel Unified School District.

Skilled Coach

Coach Bob Walthour comes to the junior high school with a wealth of experience. Coach Walthour was football and track coach at Junipero Memorial High in Monterey for six years. He is currently cross country and track coach at Carmel High School.

Another of this fine athlete's strong points is his swimming ability. He is the well-known "man with the whistle" who presides over the Carmel High School pool in the summer. His well coached swim teams always score highly for Carmel in tri-county competition.

Walthour was a distance swimmer (400 and 1500 meters) when he competed for St. Mary's College.

In addition to his duties in physical education at the junior high school, Mr. Walthour is also instructing world history. His plans are to work to develop skilled trackmen in junior high who will be ready for top competition when they get to Carmel High School.

He is married to the former Joan Taylor and has two children --Kathy, age five, and Krisi, age two.

'We Goofed' Say Carmel City Planners

"The commission made a mistake when it acted on only part of a drawing," Chairman Fred Keeble stated last week at the Carmel planning commission meeting.

Commissioner Hugh Smith moved that an appeal against a display window on Ocean Avenue, signed by 75 persons, be upheld. Only Commissioner Dorothy von Meier voted against the motion.

As a result, Saul Heffes and Abraham Hanon of Carmel Galleries, a gift shop, were requested to submit more detailed plans for any alteration of their premises.

The commission "mistake" was made on Aug. 28.

Endorse Sunset Site As Cultural Center

The boards of directors of the Bach Festival and Carmel Music Society have endorsed the proposal for a cultural center in Carmel.

Last week, during a meeting at the home of Mrs. L. W. Klene in Carmel Valley, directors of the music society voted in favor of the project. Monday evening the festival board took similar action.

Their endorsement gives further encouragement to the group, headed by Kenneth Ehrman, which proposes Sunset School site be developed as a Peninsula center for performing and visual arts.

New City Clerk Glad to Be Back

BY MARJORY LLOYD

Hugh Bayless, Carmel's new city clerk, has a varied background which should aid him in administering the many aspects of the municipal office to which he was appointed by the city council on Tuesday. In addition, he is happy to have his family again living in "their favorite place."

Hugh Bayless was born in 1917 in Iquique, Chile, where his father was engineer for an American mining company; he learned to speak Spanish before English.

His next home was in New York City and the rest of his childhood and youth was spent in upper New York State, Connecticut, New Jersey, North Carolina and Texas.

He attended schools in the last two states, graduated from high school in Houston, then attended business college in the same city. In addition to his business education, he has an electrical engineering degree.

Hugh Bayless's active military service includes duty for eight years with the Texas National Guard, U.S. Air Corps in Italy, and U.S. Army as a personnel officer. In the latter capacity he was in charge of processing records of 40,000 reservists at Fort Hood, Texas, and clearing up the records of a post exchange depot in Korea.

He has three years' experience in retail business; three years' association as an engineer designing and building psychological testing equipment for the Human Resources Research Unit; two years' employment as a sales manager in firms providing equipment for industry.

A year ago, he and his wife Charlise, whom he married in 1949, were both commuting many miles to work from their home in Fremont.

"We became pretty disgusted with this situation," he declares. In October, 1962, the Baylesses revisited Carmel where they had lived for some years before moving to San Mateo and Fremont.

Mr. Bayless heard that the city was seeking for a city clerk replacement. He went directly to Mayor Eben Whittlesey to discuss possibilities.

As a result, the Mayor called a special meeting to introduce Hugh Bayless to other city councilmen. They hired him as an administrative assistant and he has held this position under two city clerks, Lawrence D. Rose and Arthur Plaxton.

On Monday, Mr. Plaxton resigned because he plans to move outside the city limits. Hugh Bayless, who has fulfilled the necessary qualification of a year's residence in the city, was therefore eligible to replace Mr. Plaxton. Monday, he resigned his position as administrative assistant and Tuesday was appointed by the council to the position of city clerk.

If Hugh Bayless wishes to remain in this position, he will have to stand for election in April when his appointive term ends.

Hugh and Charlise Bayless live at Junipero and Ninth. They have two sons, Scot, eight years old, and Keith who was born seven months ago at the Community Hospital.

Carmel Highland News

BY LESTER HAZELL

Last week the Monterey County Planning Commission approved a revised proposal submitted by the Blue Pacific Developers Inc. for the Coast Ridge Subdivision on the north bank of Malpas Creek east of Highway 1. The new plan included two separate areas of greenbelt, one extending up one side of Malpas Canyon, which the developers offered to dedicate to the county.

Houses will be clustered on lots of down to less than two thirds of an acre. There is to be a one hundred foot setback from Highway 1 which will be part of individual lots, but which the owners will not be allowed to build upon.

The major changes that the new plan offers over previous ones are utilities under ground and twenty houses instead of twenty-two. The county counsel pointed out that this is in fact a rezoning of the area, not a re-interpretation of the present one acre minimum.

Objections were raised by the Carmel Highlands Association represented by John R. McDaniel and members of the Highlands Study Group. They stated that in the absence of an overall plan for the area, breaking of the zoning was premature, and that the scattered areas of greenbelt would tend to look like vacant lots. More study should be devoted to the needs of the whole area before breaking the zoning piecemeal.

Mr. McDaniel also reminded the Planning Commission that in a recent survey of the Highlands, an overwhelming 90 per cent favored retaining the present one acre minimum.

This week (Sept. 29) the Board of Supervisors in an informal hearing approved the Blue Pacific Developers Inc. plan as presented to the Planning Commission last week.

APPROVED

Supervisor Tom Hudson expressed surprise that there was no representation from the Highlands at the meeting. He further requested that it be noted in the minutes of the meeting that there was no protest.

When asked to comment on this later, Mr. McDaniel said that in view of the fact that a strong protest had been registered at the Planning Commission meeting and previous meetings of the Supervisors, and that the protests had been to no avail, he now felt that it was a useless and time consuming pursuit to keep going to Salinas.

Gus Bauman of the Highlands has initiated a move toward possible incorporation of the Highlands as the Monterey Peninsula's seventh city. Mr. Bauman's petition was presented at the September meeting of the Highlands Association for additional signatures. The reason given for possible incorporation is the absence of a master plan from Malpas Creek to the Carmel River. Since the Planning Commission and the Board of Supervisors have approved the Blue Pacific Developers Inc. request to lower present zoning on the Coast Ridge Tract, Highlanders fear that this will set a dangerous precedent for the area.

The Boundary Commission met to review the situation, but according to Mr. Bauman, misplaced the legal description of the land, so no action was taken.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Move to Valley

Newcomers to Carmel Valley are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lee and son Geoffrey, age 4, who have rented the Longfellow home on Middle Canyon Rd.

Mrs. Thelma Lee, to the great delight of Lory Swiess and Irene Garner, has for many years turned out scads and scads of baby and children's clothes, many of her own design and replete with hand-sewn details. A liaison has already been effected between Thelma Lee's "Pixie Fashions" and the village store Sugar 'n' Spice!

How did the family happen to choose Carmel Valley? Their previous home was Mill Valley, where Thelma also sewed for local children's stores. Mr. Lee, an engineer, was transferred to Monterey and for several months has been "semi-commuting" while the family decided where on the Peninsula to live.

"It became very clear that if we expected sunshine around here, Carmel Valley was the place," said Mrs. Lee. "We said 'to heck with old Monterey, we want out of the fog!'"

A Carmel Valley horse billed as "the world's most versatile Arabian stallion" thrilled lovers of horse flesh who attended the weekend horseshow at the Santa Cruz County fair. Rabashi, put through his paces by owner Beauford Clark, is said to "have 17 different ways of going." The famed animal not only performs with the normal five gaits but has 12 other "made" gaits for which he has been especially trained. Rabashi is a half-brother to the sire of Tamberlane, the late Arabian world champion who won 617 championship ribbons before his death.

Mrs. Richard Schenck, who recently returned from summer in the Los Angeles area, gave a coffee in her home last week. Catching up on what has gone on during vacation time were Mrs. Robert Drew, Mrs. Bob Davis, Mrs. Fred Boehme, Mrs. John Woods, and Mrs. Reginald Bennett.

The ninth anniversary banquet meeting of the Northern California Cartoon and Humor Association was held Tuesday in San Francisco in the Marina Chuck Wagon. Addressing the group was CV's Frank O'Neal who discussed the beginning of his comic strip, "Short Ribs" and displayed some of his original drawings.

A recent guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Monroe of East Garzas Road has been Mrs. Charles Kenner of Newport Beach. Margy, whose busy schedule includes the daily watering and tender loving care of six oak trees recently restored on Tierra Grande property where the Monroes are building a home, welcomed the visit and assistance from her mother.

More volunteers who will be assisting in the Community Chest Drive in the Ford Road, Via Contenta, El Caminito area will be Mrs. Mark Wilmot, Mrs. Dean Wolters, Mrs. Walter Klas, Mrs. Paul Combs, Mrs. Philip Mothersill, Mrs. Frank Miller, Mrs. Marvin Huss, and Mrs. Robert Hoover. Mrs. Mark Hattan is serving as captain.

Seems like old times to see Reuben Hampton behind the bar once again at the dinner house on Carmel Valley Road!

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lee Deal, Jr. of Camino De Travesia and Mrs. Deal's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Rose of Pacific Grove, have returned from a vacation trip through Montana, Idaho, and Nevada. High points of the trip were the rugged Wyoming country of Jackson Hole, Crater Lake in Oregon and the "Happy Canyon" pageant during Rodeo Days at the Pendleton Roundup.

Congratulations to the Robert Fullers on Lower Circle whose baby daughter arrived September 25 at Fort Ord Hospital. Terri Ann weighed 7 pounds, 15 ounces. Jackie and Bob will be leaving the Valley shortly for a new post at New London, Conn. Bob has been attending the Post Grad school in Monterey; has been assigned to a submarine school in the field of nuclear power.

Mrs. Huldah Saylor of Fresno was a houseguest last weekend of Mrs. J.B. Franklin of Flight Rd. Their friendship has endured since they met in Nebraska in 1914.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. John G. Brown of River Road who celebrated their anniversary last weekend at the home of their daughter and family, the Clyde Shifleys of Santa Clara.

There was lots of excitement on Toyon Way with the arrival shortly after noon on Friday of Miss Kerry Warner Neill. Born at the Community Hospital, the new addition to the Clayton Neill family weighed 7 lbs. 14 oz. Two sisters and a brother welcomed the little girl when Katie brought her home from the hospital this week.

FIRE CALL

The CV Volunteer Fire Department answered a fire alarm at 12:58 p.m. September 25 on the Lois Robinson property on Miramonte and Los Laureles Grade Road. The fire, which burned over one-half acre of grass, was controlled by the volunteers. They were called to the area again at 6:05 p.m. when a wire ignited a tree branch.

PRIZES TO C. H. STONE

A hatful of ribbons, most of them blue, now belong to Suffolk sheep raiser C.H. Stone of Rancho El Sueno, as a result of entries in five California county fairs this summer.

The Santa Cruz fair, which closed Oct. 29, brought a crop of 14 ribbons plus championship awards for a yearling ram and yearling ewe. These also took first prize in their class, as did five other of his entries: Pen of ewe lambs (three in pen); Flock (one ram, two yearling ewes, two ewe lambs); Get of sire (four sheep sired by the same ram); Ewe lamb; Pair (ewe and ram, the champions again). A ewe lamb, a pen of ram lambs, and a young flock took second-place ribbons; a ram lamb a third; and a yearling ewe a fourth.

The Santa Barbara fair provided 11 ribbons, San Luis Obispo 12, Monterey 12, and at press time the results from Los Angeles were momentarily expected.

MRS. RUTH SARETT TO SPEAK AT CV COMMUNITY CHAPEL GUILD

Mrs. Ruth Sarett, Director of the Carmel Foundation, will be the featured speaker at the October 9th meeting of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel Guild. Mrs. Sarett spent the past summer in Norway and Denmark visiting Homes for the Aged and also attended the Conferences of the Gerontological Society in Denmark.

The meeting will start at 12:45 with dessert and coffee. Mrs. Guy Freeman is in charge of refreshments and will be assisted by Mrs. Ed Capon, Mrs. Ruth Holme and Mrs. Ralph Mills.

GLASS COATING DEFIES HEAT

Here is a glass coating that controls glare, heat and fading. The coating, which is applied to existing glass walls and windows, is a blend of controlled evaporation solvents and pigments in an alkyd resin base. It works like a window size pair of sun glasses to filter out glare and fade-producing ultra-violet light as well as heat-generating infra-red rays. The coating can be applied to plate glass, insulating glass or ordinary window glass. Also, it is easy to maintain. If the special cleaner-preservative is applied to the coated surfaces every three months the customary window cleaning procedure may be followed — using care not to scratch the coating with abrasive or metal objects.

New Resident Devises 'Art Method'

BY SHIRLEY BASS

Since moving into his new home at 28 Ford Road, Richard Reams has been working on his new book on art methods, which is now in the hands of the printer. It will be ready for distribution and sale "in time for Christmas gift-giving." "The reason I wrote it," Reams says, "was to make sketching and painting easier for those, like myself, who want the experience of putting on paper or canvas people and scenes which mean a lot to them."

Reams' interest in painting was activated during travels in Alaska, England, and on the Continent. "There is always some particular thing which captures your eye and you think 'I wish I had a good sketch of this scene to take home'," he explains.

A man of action, Reams set about devising a method. Hobbyists call it, "a miracle," and professional artists who have read proof on the book are also duly impressed.

With picture possibilities in Carmel Valley available from every patio, backyard and picture windows, Reams predicts many of his friends and neighbors will find his book useful.

The method? Reams will only say, "it's a secret,"—but one that soon will out!

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD REAMS, recent additions to the reservoir of interesting artistic and cultural backgrounds, are shown aboard the Queen Elizabeth on a recent trip abroad—this one to England to pursue their interests in archeology.

Tularcitos Parents

James Miller presided at the first fall meeting of Tularcitos Parents Club last Tuesday evening, and introduced the roster of new officers who will serve during the current year. Among them were Mr. Miller's wife and co-president; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Frisbie, vice-presidents; Dr. and Mrs. Toland Doud, corresponding secretary; Mr. and Mrs. Don Meyers, recording secretary; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Van Hagen, treasurer; Mr. and Mrs. Walt Mausey, social chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bresk, membership chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ricupero, ways and means; Mrs. June Campbell, parliamentarian.

Mr. Miller discussed the recent meeting of the executive board and touched on suggested plans for the new year. He explained the difference between the Parents Club Organization and the Parent-Teachers Association and urged the members who had considered making a change to give careful consideration to the matter.

Principal Bill Mallek welcomed the parents to another school year and introduced his faculty, all of whom were returning from last year with the exception of Mrs. Dana Arter Newman. Mr. Mallek announced that Tularcitos now is made up of 240 families whose total enrollment is 393 students.

The classroom award for the most parents in attendance went to Mrs. Sandburg's first grade. Classroom visitation and a social hour followed the business meeting. The next meeting is scheduled for October 22 when Medill Bair, new Superintendent of Schools for the Carmel Unified School District, will be guest speaker.

'Cowboy' Wins Ribbon

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rettig are home again in the Valley following a 2-weeks tour of the Horse Show circuit, Lee reports proudly that their bright sorrel quarter horse, "Savage's Cowboy," barely turned three years of age, placed second out of 16 in the "Stockhorse at Halter" class at the Santa Cruz County Fair last week. The Rettigs also took a swing through Amador County for "combined business and pleasure," she reports.

Road Plans Please Property Owners

When Mrs. Jeanette Ayres of the upper Valley inquired "just out of curiosity" what percentage of the property owners were aware that these plans were being approved by the group in final form, Luis Wolters, who knows by name every property owner in that area, took the floor. Luis traversed the 20-foot long map with his index finger, calling off the name of each property owner, at least three-fourths of whom were, to his knowledge, aware of developments.

"These meetings have been well-advertised," observed CVPOA president John Sigourney, who conducted the meeting.

Sigourney confirmed, in response to another question from Jeanette Ayres, that the plans would be completed and a sufficient number of property owners meetings held in the next few weeks that the final, completed version may be presented to the Planning Commission on schedule: November 13.

(Ed. Note: the version shown by Planner Campbell Tuesday night appears to be a real compromise between the County's original version of 4-lanes separated by a 16-foot strip and the more fanciful versions suggested by several sources since. According to the rough scale, it appeared that there would be an average of perhaps 50-feet of separation between east- and westbound lanes. The two one-way roads come very close together, necessarily, in such spots as between Carmelo School and Carmel Valley Manor. They veer much wider apart where verticle separations are envisioned.)

That there will be more difficulty in squeezing four lanes between the high bank at Farm Center and the commercial property in that area (from Dorris Drive to Robinson Canyon Rd.) seemed evident. Officials agreed it was understood that this part of the plans is not final yet.

Just past Farm Center hill, it was clearly indicated, there will be more serious problems--at one of the most beautiful viewpoints of the Valley Rd. Either frontage must be taken from large homes on either side of the road, or the additional 2 lanes must swing down toward the river in a wide separation from the other two. Campbell felt that the latter course would effect a spectacular and desirable road, but realized that fine homes also exist along the river frontage at this time.

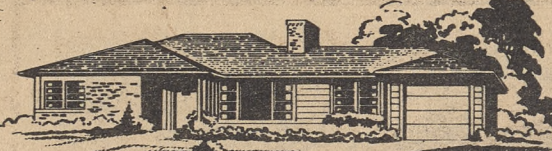

The phrase, "Someone will be hurt," was heard again from the group.

Valley representative to the Planning Commission Edward Marcucci brought applause when he stated that the need for a riding and hiking trail should be emphasized. Campbell warned however that much as he favored the concept, uninterrupted paths should not be expected at all points.

Joe Shively, representing the County Road Department, gave the opinion that so long as gas tax money is not used to construct riding and hiking trails, it is legal to locate these on state or county rights-of-way.

Spontaneous applause followed the end of the meeting--including some from residents who had bitterly opposed any plan presented previous to Campbell's employment jointly by the County and the property owners.
